Emberá Indigenous Village

$90 USD

Embark on an enchanting excursion to an Emberá village. Transfer to the riverbank and board dugout canoes for a short, scenic ride up the Chagres River to a settlement of Emberá. Known as the “Keepers of the Rainforest,” the Emberá strive to preserve their rich indigenous heritage despite the increasing pressures of the modern world. Relocated to this area from the Darién, the Emberá lost their nomadic, agricultural way of life but now welcome small groups of visitors. Explore how they are keeping alive ancient techniques of homebuilding and handicrafts. See traditional dances, learn how they create their gorgeous basket weavings and tagua nut carvings, and partake in a simple lunch cooked the traditional way before returning by dugout canoe to the mainland. Spend an unforgettable afternoon with the welcoming and friendly Emberá and gain extraordinary insight into this fascinating culture.

Please note: for departures between May 1, 2011 and April 30, 2012, this option runs at the same time as Gatun Locks & Portobelo Fort; passengers can choose one optional tour this day. For departures after May 1, 2012, this option runs at the same time as From the Canal to the Caribbean; passengers can choose one optional tour this day.

Duration: Approximately 6 hours. Please note a minimum of 10 passengers is required. Transportation is included.

Gatún Locks & Portobelo Fort

$95 USD

Delve further into the history of Panama and the Canal with a visit to the Gatún Locks and Portobelo Fort, a UNESCO World Heritage site. At Gatún Locks, enjoy an up-close view from the observation deck of the three locks in action and the mules (electric locomotives) which guide ships through. Gain a complete perspective of the entire canal route. Each lock chamber requires almost 27 million gallons of water to fill – and then drain – which occurs in less than 10 minutes. The massive 7-ft. thick gates control the flow, helping ships raise or lower 85 feet on their journey to the Pacific or Atlantic Ocean. Continue towards Colon and the spectacular Caribbean coast on your way to the sleepy bayside town of Portobelo, founded in 1597. Portobelo played a crucial role in the silver trade routes of Panama’s past and the pirates’ routes of plunder. Enjoy lunch at a lovely local seafood restaurant. See the colonial fortifications where the canons are still pointing towards the bay they once protected. After exploring the historic Fort and the Custom House, visit San Felipe Church, home to Panama’s most venerated religious figure, the Black Christ. According to legend it possesses divine powers. This tour provides an in-depth look into Panama’s colorful past and exposes you to some of its most stunning scenery.

Note: this option runs at the same time as Embera Indigenous Village; passengers can choose one optional tour this day. Duration: Approximately 6 hours. Please note a minimum of 7 passengers is required. Transportation is included.

Kayaking at the Panama Canal

$50 USD

Cruise around the Chagres River, the islands of Gatún Lake and to the edge of the Panama Canal onboard your own kayak and truly experience the rainforest. Glide through the water at your own pace, listening to birds chirping. Search the surrounding jungle for howler monkeys, toucans, sloths, eagles and many other wild animals. Explore this tranquil setting, making your adventure as relaxed and leisurely as you wish. In this stunningly unique setting, there is no better way to connect with nature. Bring comfortable clothes and water shoes; shorts, light t-shirt, hat, sun block, and insect repellent are recommended, along with spare clothes for after your trip. Kayaking equipment is included.

Note: this option runs during the same time as the Rainforest Canopy Tour Aerial Tram; passengers can choose one optional tour. Duration: Approximately 2 hours. Please note a minimum of 2 passengers is required. Transportation is included.

Rainforest Canopy Tour Aerial Tram

$50 USD

Experience the sights and sounds of a tropical rainforest, as you ascend from the shadowy forest floor through the dense undergrowth and up 280 feet to its sun-drenched canopy. Your naturalist guide describes the flora and fauna you pass as howler monkeys call out in the distance. It's a feast for the senses; colorful birds and butterflies surround, and you might also encounter iguanas, sloths or white-faced capuchin monkeys. Once at the top, you can climb the 100 foot tall observation tower for views of the vast rainforest of Soberanía National Park while watching the cargo ships maneuver through the Gaillard Cut. Continue to interpretative exhibits of native flora, fauna and culture. Throughout this adventure your guide will be on hand to explain and enhance your encounters. Bring comfortable clothes and shoes; long pants, hat, sun block, sunglasses, camera, binoculars and insect repellent are recommended.

Note: this option runs during the same time as Kayaking at the Panama Canal; passengers can choose one optional tour. Duration: Approximately 2.5 hours. Please note a minimum of 1 passengers is required. Transportation is included.

Sunset Safari

$40 USD

What are the rainforest animals doing at night? Search for them during a nocturnal tour from an open-air boat. Enjoy the chance to spot tapirs, capybaras, alligators, rare tropical opossums, western night monkeys and two-toed sloths. Luminescent pairs of eyes reveal scores of reptiles hunting after dark along the edges of the river and Gatún Lake. Two protected species – the crocodile and the caiman – populate local water. But reptiles are not the only stars of this nocturnal adventure; calls of the nightjar (a whippoorwill cousin) and frogs echo over the still water. Bats dive to the water's surface for a quick drink. During your night safari, learn interesting facts about the Gamboa area. Don't miss this opportunity to experience the nocturnal sights and sounds of the waterfront.

Bring comfortable clothes and shoes; long pants, camera, flashlight and insect repellent are recommended. Duration: Approximately 1 hour. Please note a minimum of 2 passengers is required. Transportation is included.

Panama City

Pacific Queen Partial Transit of the Panama Canal

You will also have the chance to observe the impressive Panama Canal Expansion Project currently underway. Pass through the Pedro Miguel Lock and watch as the Pacific Queen is lowered 30 feet.
