ABAC Honors Program Soars to New Heights

Research shows that new is one of the most persuasive words in the English language. When it comes to the Honors Program at ABAC, new is an adjective that has been a key factor in 50 new students joining the program this year, up from 23 in 2012.

Dr. Cyndy Hall, a faculty member in the School of Liberal Arts and the director of the program, said new approaches are paying off with a higher level of student interest this year.

"Last year ABAC held its first ever Scholar's Evening where current honors students met with prospective high school seniors, and I met with seniors in various communities around the state at our Evenings With ABAC" Hall said. "The Enrollment Services office also initiated targeted recruiting efforts for the program."

Hall said there is also a new Honors Hall in the ABAC Lakeside housing facility where honors program students can live and learn together to make up a true learning community.

"Many larger universities have Honors Houses, so we are meeting the need of providing a separate space for honors students to live and study together," Hall said. "The Lakeside Honors Hall is flourishing and nearly filled."

Conger Hall also features an Honors Lounge, which opened on the third floor of the building last year. It offers honors program students a place to relax during the day as well as a space to host film colloquiums and socials. Commuter students are very fond of this space.

Three new honors courses, Biology 1107H, Biology 1108H, and History 2111H, have been added to the menu of courses for the honors program, bringing the total number of honors classes to eight.

"The honors program not only offers challenging courses and a communal atmosphere that prepares students for future scholastic and professional endeavors, but it also distinguishes these students as they move beyond ABAC to their advanced degrees," Hall said.

"The program enhances and undergirds the student's major, providing an extra level of academic and social unity." Hall said the goal of the program is to bring the "best and brightest" students to the ABAC campus. The program is a supportive structure for the various schools and degree programs. Students in the program are from a variety of majors with the School of Science and Mathematics leading the way. Many of those students are enrolled in the new ABAC bachelor's degree in biology.

Auditions for 'The Taming of the Shrew' Today & Tomorrow

Auditions for the Baldwin Players' production of William Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew" will be held at ABAC today and tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. in Conger Hall, Room 319. Auditions are open to everyone. The play will run from Oct. 31-Nov. 2.

"The Taming of the Shrew" is a comedy about the courtship of Petruchio, a gentleman of Verona, and Katherina, the headstrong, inflexible shrew. Initially, Katherina is an unwilling participant in the relationship, but Petruchio irritates her with various psychological torments, thus the "taming", until she becomes a willing bride. The subplot features a competition between the suitors of Katherina's more desirable sister, Bianca.

The play's obvious misogynistic features have become the subject of considerable controversy, particularly among modern audiences and readers. It has been adapted numerous times for stage, screen, opera, and musical theatre; perhaps the most famous adaptations being Cole Porter's musical "Kiss Me, Kate" and the film "10 Things I Hate About You", which was loosely based on the play. The Baldwin Players' production will be an original adaptation by Dr. Brian Ray, the Director of the Baldwin Players.

The cast includes Katherina (Kate) Minola, the "shrew"; Bianca, sister of Katherina and the ingénue; Baptista Minola, father of Katherina and Bianca; Petruchio, suitor of Katherina; Gremio, elderly suitor of Bianca; Lucentio, suitor of Bianca who spends some of play disguised as Cambio, a Latin tutor; and Hortensio, suitor of Bianca and friend to Petruchio who spends some of the play disguised as Litio, a music tutor.

Ray said nothing needs to be prepared or memorized for the audition. No experience doing Shakespeare is required. There are speaking roles for 11 men (teens-50s) and three women (two in the age range of teens-20s, and one up to 40s). There are also some non-speaking roles available.

The production will run from Oct. 31-Nov. 2 in Howard Auditorium at 7 p.m. each night. Admission is free to ABAC faculty, staff and students. There is a $7 admission fee for the general public. This play deals with adult themes and situations.

For more information, interested persons can contact Ray at (229) 391-4969 or at bray@abac.edu.
