State Farm Intern Program Established at ABAC

The Stafford School of Business at Abraham Baldwin Agricultural College and State Farm have partnered to create the State Farm Intern program with agents Chad Sumner of Tifton and Brent Dixon of Adel. During the internship, students will be exposed to the insurance industry with the hope that a number of them will decide to pursue a career with State Farm. Those persons pictured include: front row: CiCi Arriaga, a journalism and mass media major from Macon, and Susan Driscoll, Dean of the Stafford School of Business; second row: Luis Mendez, a business administration major from Lizella; Davontae Hunt, a rural studies major from Tifton; Kendal Hickox, an agricultural communications major from Waycross; and Seth Mann, a business administration major from Tifton; third row: Clay Harris of Loganville and ABAC Academic Affairs Vice President Niles Reddick; fourth row: Chad Sumner, ABAC President David Bridges and Brent Dixon.
